TWO WILLS

Probated in County Court Yesterday.

The will of the late J. R. Caudle was probated in county court yesterday. To his wife, Cora Caudle, he bequeathed all of his effects, including money, accounts, stocks, bonds, farming implements, live stock, etc., attached to the home place. To his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Julia Caudle, he left his farm, stock, implements, etc., attached to the farm operated by his son T. E. Caudle. The home place of 600 acres of land is devised to his wife during her life and at her death this property goes to his three grandsons, Frank B. J. R., Jr., and Julien Caudle. The remainder of the estate, 400 acres of land, is devised to his son, T. E. Caudle, during his life time and at his death this property goes to his son's legal representatives. The instrument was dated Jan. 12, 1911, and was witnessed by Messrs. Geo. C. and Thos. W. Long.

The last will and testament of the late Peter S. Holloway was probated yesterday. After making some small bequests to his nephew, William S. McCarroll, residue of his estate is left to his two brothers, Hampden S. and Robert A. Holloway, to be divided equally. Robert A. Holloway is named as executor. The will was made Dec. 19, 1910, and was witnessed by R. S. Jones and Joe McCarroll.

If you wish to buy or sell real estate of any kind it will pay you to see me.

PARTNERSHIP IS DISSOLVED

County Nips Lawsuit By Asking Release From Contract.

JOINT BOARD MEETS

All But $8,800 Of The County's Money Has Been Returned.

There will be no lawsuit over the contract entered into between the County Board of Education and the City School Board for the erection of a joint high school to cost $100,000.

While Ward Headley and Judge W. H. Yost were in the city Saturday to start litigation for dissatisfied citizens of the county, the two boards met and dissolved the contract, shutting off any resort to the courts.

The City Board had received $14,800 from the county and spent $6,800 of it. Of the $8,000 on hand, $5,000 was returned and the two boards appointed their respective members composing the "High School Council" to adjust the terms of release for the county.

The city lot costing $9,300 and the county's costing $5,000 were owned jointly. The Boards met again yesterday and made a final settlement by which the city returned $1,000 more, making $6,000 and the County Board is to deed its interest in the lot as a whole to the city, making its payments to date $8,800, which includes all tuition for this session.

A new contract was then entered into by which the County Board may send as many pupils as it wishes for $3,000 a year for 5 years. This is a great concession by the city Board, as there are already 39 county pupils, worth $40 each. The county is liable to have at least 200 pupils.

The City Board will of course make arrangements to complete the building now up to its second story. The new contract provides that if in the future the County Board wishes to buy an interest in the property it will have a credit of $7,000 on the price agreed upon.

Effects of One Bottle.

Crandon, Tex.—"After my last spell of sickness," writes Mrs. Belle Teal, of this city, "I remained very ill, and stayed in bed for eight weeks. I couldn't get up, all this time, and though my doctor came to see me every day, he didn't do me any good. I had taken but one bottle of Cardui, when I was up, going everywhere, and soon I was doing all my housework." Cardui helps when other medicines have failed, because it contains ingredients not found in any other medicine. Pure, safe, reliable, gentle-acting—Cardui is the ideal medicinal tonic for weak, sick women. Try it.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Yankee Doodle Stock Company began a three-nights' engagement last night at Holland's Opera House, playing to a large and appreciative audience.

This is a first class company, with excellent artists who put on some good specialties. Clyde Long is an original comedian and a clever actor and is supported by Dave Durden, who is especially good with his comedy stunts. Misses Ruby Berger and Babe Russell are most attractive soubrettes and their dances and songs are good. The Scotchman with his funny stories and Scottish dances receives much praise also. Popular prices for this engagement.

Brutal Son.

Crazed from the effects of Jamaica Ginger, which he drank like water, Jim Henry, in Bowling Green early Friday morning brutally assaulted and knocked down his aged mother, Mrs. Mary Henry, so badly injuring her that she is now lying in St. Joseph's Hospital in a critical condition with a broken hip.

Pointed Paragraph.

A woman is to be judged by her kitchen as a man is by his study.

The training of life in its relations to humanity can alone produce real unselfishness.

It is easy to draw up rules of life, but few people can live up to their own rules.

Failure to do a difficult task is more to be commended than shirking the attempt.

Flattery makes friends, but not lasting ones.

The great secret of success is concentration.

Flattery is a fault that is quickest cure by marriage.

Being ground down is seldom what makes a man sharp.

A man's logic will carry him almost as far as instinct will carry a woman.

To repent at leisure requires more time than the average man has at his disposal.

The most popular advice to give a woman is to tell her to do as she thinks.

A word to the wise is sufficient, which explains why a lawyer will talk to a jury for half a day.

PREPARING FOOD FOR JEWS

How Cattle Are Slaughtered for the Orthodox in the Kosher Departments of Packing Concerns.

At all of the big packing concerns care is taken in the preparation of meat eaten by orthodox Jews. Each packing house has its Kosher department where cattle are slaughtered and packed in accord with the requirements of the Jewish religion.

The animal is raised from the floor by his hind legs and some rabbit or other learned Jew cuts the throat with a single stroke of a large knife, more than one stroke being cause for rejection. After thorough bleeding it is floored, cut open, and carefully examined by a Jewish inspector.

The hide is then removed and the carcass is washed, marked, and run into the cooler, to be sold in due time to some Kosher butcher. Jews eat only the forequarters of an animal and these only after the large veins have been removed. The forequarter, as Koshered, is cut at the fifth rib. In their method of inspection the Jews go upon the theory that disease exists in the blood only an idea indorsed by many of the medical profession.

OLD GLASS NOW IS FASHION

Antique Candelabra and Other Articles Are Used as Decoration for the Dinner Table.

Old glass seems coming into fashion by way of decoration for the dinner table. I dined the other night with some people of taste whose beautifully polished dinner table of old mahogany was entirely decorated with antique glass, even to the central candelabra and the four candlesticks, one at either corner.

The effect, with plenty of white flowers, was, I must say, charming. It is curious, though, that what was nothing accounted of in one generation becomes a craze in the next. Lady Dorothy Nevill in her latest book of reminiscences remarks on the modern craze for old glass and how some specimens formerly used in the most ordinary way at public houses are now eagerly sought after by collectors.—Gentlewoman.

STRANGE SEA FISH.

The angler, or fishing frog, of which a specimen has just been captured near Brighton, Eng., though nowhere common, seems more generally distributed around our coasts than some authorities suppose.

The angler is so called from the curious "rod and bait" formed by a modification of a ray of the front dorsal fin, which was formerly fancied to attract small fish; but the entire hideous body is a marvelous mimetic adaptation of the bottom of the sea, upon which the creature walks, using the pectoral fins for feet. This marine ogre has little value, except for museums; but the gall is used by Irish washerwomen to bleach linen, and in Ireland it is utilized for the manufacture of soap.

FILLED WITH CONSTERNATION.

A Boston lady, just home from London, describes her visit to a London tailor and his reluctance to provide silk for the garment she wanted. "He had no silk, maddam. She glanced about his shop for evidence to the contrary. Across the back of a chair lay a waistcoat lined with silk. She picked up the garment, and was about to brandish it as an aid to argument when a look of utter consternation overspread the tailor's face. Instead of rebuking her he merely announced the sacrilege. "Maddam!" he said, in awestruck tones, "that waistcoat belonged to 'is late majesty King Edward! I'm making it over for the duke of Connaught."—Clerk of the Day in Boston Transcript.

PRESENT FROM HIS WIFE.

Stubb—What's Jenks making all that fuss about?
Penn—His wife gave him a roll-top desk for a birthday present and he says it reminds him of her.
Stubb—In what way?
Penn—It won't shut up.

A LIFEBOUY.

"Wilfred, why did you stick so closely to that Wall street speculator when you went in bathing?"
"Because I knew if trouble happened he could float anything."—Baltimore American.
